

STRIKERS DEFEAT CRACOW POLICE

30 Killed and 260 Wounded in Street Battles—Infantry Refuses to Obey Officers—Strikers Control City.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Warsaw, Nov. 7.—Thirty persons were killed and 260 wounded in battles between strikers and police at Cracow, according to a dispatch from that city today. Troops reinforced the police. The dead included a major of cavalry.

The trouble began with pitched battles between policemen and strikers in the streets of Cracow on Tuesday.

The strikers were armed with rifles which they had seized from the police in previous raids.

Attempts by the police to rush the positions held by the strikers proved unsuccessful. Sanguinary fighting resulted during which the police brought machine guns into action. A brigade of cavalry was brought up to aid the police.

The troubles were aggravated when two regiments of infantry refused to obey their officers.

Workmen made a concerted rush, capturing eight machine guns and an armored car, whose crew had been killed or wounded.

Advices received at noon said that Cracow was still in the hands of strikers, but that negotiations were in progress with the municipal officials and that most of the strikers' demands had been granted.

RARE CHINESE WINDOW AT WARREN'S STORE.

One can always be sure of seeing something both very interesting and artistic in arrangement in the show window of the Charles A. Warren sporting goods store on Fair street, but just at present Mr. Warren has quite outdone himself. The window represents an ancient Chinese shrine and the objects to be seen there are for the most part real Chinese antiques of inestimable value.

As the background of the window one sees a rich old piece of Chinese tapestry in gold and silver and exquisitely soft colors that quite belie the ferocity of the dragons disporting thereon.

In the smoking car, one of the passengers had an empty coat-sleeve. A fellow-traveler, after a vain effort to restrain his curiosity, finally hemmed and hawed, and said: "I beg your pardon, sir, but I see you've lost an arm."

The one-armed picked up the empty sleeve in his remaining hand and regarded it in apparent astonishment.

"Bless my soul!" he said, "I believe you're right."

A NEW KIPLING STORY IN DECEMBER BOYS' LIFE

New York, Nov. 7.—Rudyard Kipling has written a story especially for the boys of America. This story is the first one designed especially for his young admirers the author of "Stalky & Co.", "Kim", "Jungle Books", and "Captains Courageous" has written in a number of years. It will appear in the December numbers of Boys' Life, the magazine published by the Boy Scout organization for all boys, James E. West, chief scout executive, announced today.

The Kipling story is one of the many outstanding features made possible as a result of the fund recently secured by the Boy Scout organization for the development of the best possible type of juvenile fiction. In his latest story, entitled "His Gift," Kipling creates a new character—a Boy Scout, whose career affords plenty of laughs and many chuckles, with a lesson or two besides.

In the November Boys' Life Zane Grey begins an interesting series, in which he recounts his adventures while catching mountain lions with a rope in the Grand Canyon in Colorado.

Douglas Fairbanks discusses success in an article entitled, "Youth Points the Way." Fairbanks says that while those who succeed must observe the ordinary rules of clean and regular living, steady application, industry and honesty, it still remains true that success requires something more than an observance of those rules. The enthusiasm of youth, he says, is the essential element.

In a heart-to-heart talk with his readers, Percy D. Haughton, master coach and gridiron strategist, tells why it is in football, as it is in life, that the "team" is the thing. He explains why it is that a group of stars may not necessarily make a great team, while many great football teams have made stars out of mediocre players.

The November number of Boys' Life also contains the second installment of Arthur B. Reeve's story—"Craig Kennedy—Radio Detective." In addition, the issue carries a number of noteworthy short fiction articles, besides the departments in which Dan Beard tells boys how to make bows and bowstrings and "Skipper" Gidney presents two pages of illustrated hike and trail hints.

TWO HULING SEALS ARRIVE AT WINTER HOME

Two large seals consigned to Mark Huling arrived by express from Santa Barbara, Calif., Tuesday night at the West Shore station. Mr. Huling and brother Frank have a number of trained seals and have just closed a long season with the Barnum-Billing shows. Another brother, Ray Huling, is playing in large vaudeville houses with his clown seal that was seen at the Kingston Exposition of the Kingston Fair Grounds a few months ago. The training house for the Huling brothers is in the town of Ulster just across the bridge over the Esopus creek.

Glenwood

Makes Cooking Easy

"I never knew I was such a good cook"

AND I'll have to give most of the credit to our new Glenwood range, it certainly has made a difference in my cooking. I'm spending less time in the kitchen, too.

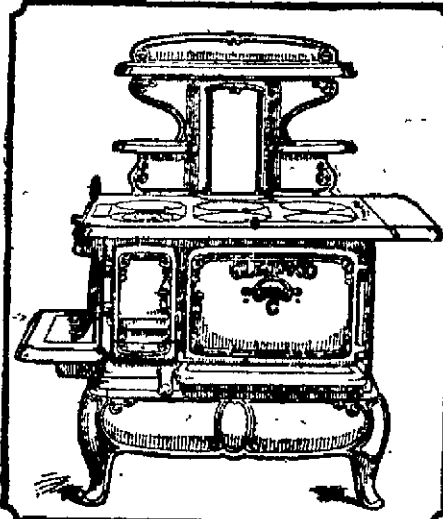

"It's a relief to have a range that doesn't need to be coaxed to cook."

A Glenwood comes as near to making cooking a pleasure as any range can. It does make cooking easy, which is really more important.

The Model "C" Glenwood is illustrated here.

Its big square oven bakes food exactly right—top, bottom and clear through. The balanced baking damper and the Glenwood Patent Indicator take care of that—you can't make a mistake.

Like every Glenwood, the Model "C" is built for a lifetime of service. It will give you a new idea of how easy it is to be a good cook.

Do we eat to live or live to eat?

THOSE who live to eat usually have a short life, and not always a merry one.

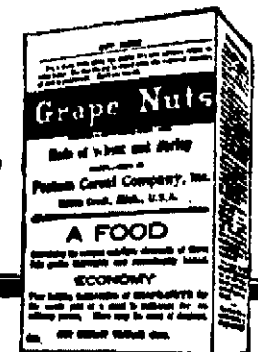

Those who eat to live know that it is not how much they eat, but rather the food they properly digest that makes for health and long life.

The crisp, delicious wheat-and-barley food, Grape-Nuts, is not only good to eat, but it digests easily, and supplies life essential vitamin and mineral elements from the grain, without which health and strength cannot be maintained.

Grape-Nuts with milk or cream is completely nourishing—a delightful, well-balanced food for those who eat to live long and happily.

Bright Colors in Late Fall StylesMany Costumes Carry East
Indian Note; New Dress
With Coat-Top.

Brilliant colors and novelty materials are a feature of the new fashions, writes a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Tribune. Among the emphatic notes are the Hindu-Chinese effects. One needs only to study the records of the moguls to realize how closely the present-day fashions to their mode of dress. In the Bibliothèque Nationale at Paris is to be found a wonderful collection of hand illuminated and hand-illustrated silks, done by Italian artists, which set forth particularly the costume history of the great moguls. The house Agnes shows in replica many points of the picturesque dress of these people.

One recalls that just prior to the war Paris fashions went through a period of minaret styles and the Hindu-Chinese effects are from the same source. But in the present interpretations fashion has escaped the minaret skirt and it is the polonaise, that has been adopted—the flaring bell-shaped postilion or basque set onto a close-fitting, belted body. Thus it is the outline Mogul style that Paris is exhibiting for autumn—the coat of the and Mogul himself, and not those of the women of his harem.

Any number of costumes bear this Indian note. At first sight it was as if it were a two-piece garment, that there was a narrow foundation and over this a flaring coat of three-quarters length. But the new note is really a dress with a coat-top and not a two-piece costume. In every manner the flaring tunic and narrow skirt are attached and one is complementary part of the other, though they may differ both in color and in material.

Sumptuous fabrics are employed for these modes. Or if the fabric is plain is a brilliant color and often marvellously embroidered and jeweled. Developed From White Velvet. One of the most interesting dresses of this sort is a model called Pagode. It is developed from white velvet richly embroidered from white velvet and embroidered in gold and in black silk. At the edge of the three-quarter length sleeves and the godet is a band of black velvet, and trailing all is a deep band of dark brown fur.

This model is almost exactly like coats worn by titled rulers during the period of the Grand Moguls. The skirt is straight and close-fitting, with low waistline and three-quarters length flaring widely over a very narrow foundation. The sleeves are long and bell shaped and the neck is collarless. There is an opening down front of the blouse characteristic of the Oriental garment which slips over the head.

Another beautiful Hindu model is a gown. It is developed in red velvet with gold embroidery in an elaborate all-over pattern with deep borders of fur. This silhouette is exactly the same as that of Pagode. Separate coats are cut on these flaring lines. Many of them are made of the new woolen and metal yarn cloths which bid fair to be

This is a sort of velours de laine with a pattern in contrasting color which takes the form of stripes. And along with the craze for these fancy weaves one finds that the autumn silk jersey cloths are being elaborately embroidered all over in various tones. A great many three-piece suits in which the jacket wrap is three-quarters and seven-eighths length are shown. Many of the dresses are in straight chemise form with the coat in straight, close-fitting style or in the gored, flared effect. The latter is distinctly newer. Some of the three-piece suits have long tunic bodies made of metal brocade or velvet. One wonders if this anticipates the very long overblouse as a possible sequence to this new fashion.

One of these long smocks or tunic blouses is developed from cyclamen velvet with self-tone embroideries. A black velvet dress which is one of the most showy rhinestone embroidered models is called Conquerante. The entire back of the corsage is made of a mesh of rhinestones and through the interstices of the jeweled pattern the flesh is revealed.

Embroidered in Rhinestones. Devienne is another beautiful evening dress trimmed with rhinestones. It is developed from black satin, while Magicienne is a black velvet model, on the skirt of which appears a deep flaring flounce made entirely of rhinestone embroidery.

A very young looking model called Petite Fille is in three tones of pink georgette. The skirt is made of three-shaped flounces which, beginning on one side, have straight edge bands finishing in an overlapping end in deep cascading points. These odd-shaped flounces, of which there are three, are each bordered with a band of rhinestone embroidery and there is an interesting rhinestone embroidered motif which trims the side of the skirt and finishes on the bodice in a sort of pocket design.

June, another lovely creation, is in green, with broad bands of rhinestone embroidery encircling the close-fitting straight-line dress.

One of Callot's newest models developed in a heavy red crepe is trimmed with red suede leather, the leather forming the big cuffs, collar, skirt band and border of the cape-panel back. This present fancy for leather trimmings carries dressmakers to every possible extreme. Everything in leather goes—even trimmings for frail fabrics.

A Callot model well reflects this mode. The suede leather used is almost as supple as the crepe and it adds a distinctly novel touch. Heading the borders of red leather, separating it slightly from the red crepe, are bands of black crepe. The slight line of black is seen at the border of the collar, cuffs and pocket facings of leather.

Rose Descat, the popular Rue Royale milliner, recently sent to one of her smartest customers six small hats made of suede kid, all exactly the same except for the color. There was one in pure white, one in brilliant red, one in vivid emerald green, one in soft beige, one in brown and one all black.

Feathers. Feathers are to be especially popular on hats. Stiff quills give perkiness to felt and velours sports hats, with the new shaving-brush feather as an attractive alternative. The latter type of pompon is of glycerinated ostrich, and is most often seen on hats with melon crowns and rolling brims turned up in front.

No Jewels With Sports Clothes. Jewels for sports clothes are not done, really. The two things do not go together, that is all. And yet so many of the girls one meets upon the street show earrings or jeweled hat pins or diamond bracelets or some other incongruous ornament along with their heavy tweeds.

A Woman's Way. A woman ran out of a house shouting "Fire!" A passer-by started at a gallop for the fire station, while a second pedestrian dashed into the hall and, being unable to see or smell smoke, turned to the gasping and excited woman, and asked: "Where is the fire? I can't see any signs of one." "I—I didn't mean fire! I—I meant murder!" she screamed. A policeman arrived at that moment, and demanded to know who was being murdered. "Oh, I didn't mean murder," wailed the miserable woman, "but the biggest cat you ever set eyes on chased out cat across the kitchen just now!"

Interesting Notes of Importance to Women

The suppleness of this season's soft velvets makes them particularly graceful for evening cloaks. Invariably topped by a wide fur collar, these cloaks permit the velvet to be gathered up into soft ruffles tier on tier.

One young London beauty startled society by appearing at a ball recently with a cameo pin fastened around one ankle by a black velvet ribbon. Such use of a cameo on the wrist is not uncommon but whether the ankle ornament will be widely adopted remains to be seen.

A marvelous pajama suit of heavy silk shown in New York is decorated in orange, pale green and black in batik design. The colors are painted on by hand.

The choker necklace is now accompanied by the choker bracelet and the two may be had in a set with earrings to match. The choker bracelet is merely a tight bracelet of big glass beads, matching the necklace.

Narrow metallic ribbon, in silver, gold or bronze, is run into some of the more elaborate satin lingerie. Occasionally the upper part of such lingerie has a yoke of broadened metallic satin, the rest of the garment being of plain georgette.

As it is today, if you want a normal waistline you may have it; if not, your waistline may continue as low as you wish. As for the length of skirts they are theoretically longer but actually shorter if anything.

Who said the day of the coat frock was over? Today the coat frock is more in favor than ever. Many of the street dresses in woolen and serge materials are smartly tailored in coat effect.

Half the dresses one sees today are made up of lace and the other half of the dresses one sees are trimmed with flaring lace panels, bouffes, or sleeve ruffles. Bits of bright embroideries are appearing as supplements to the lace trimmings.

Cloth Bag Container
for Your Vegetables

A convenient kitchen appurtenance is the cloth bag that will hold a head of lettuce to be put into the ice box, or a bunch of radishes or perhaps a longer container for the celery stalks. Soft muslin is best for these, and several sets are none too many, for they should be laundered and kept sweet and clean. Make them wide enough and long enough so that whatever is put in them will not be crushed when the draw string is pulled up.

They should have a draw string, of course. Make the bags of different lengths and widths, so that all kinds of vegetables may be put into them and laid on the ice. Stitch them across the ends and up the sides. Turn a wide hem, stitch twice with a half-inch space between, run in a neat draw string, and they are ready for use. Once these bags are used, the housewife will never again be without them.

From crêpones, calicoes, percales and other left-overs, pot-holders can be made, and there can never be too many of these in the kitchen. A good size for these is eight inches square. They can be hung by a brass ring sewn in the corner, or by a loop made from the material.

Attractive Blouses.

The newest blouses of printed crepe, showing fresh light colors, are to be had both in hip bands and Jacquette models, the former finished with Peter Pan collars and cuffs of white organdy with knife-plaited edgings. Cross-over blouses made of Deauville handkerchiefs show wide faggot stitched hems of plain georgette of the same color as the suit with which they are worn. White Shelland wool sweater blouses of jumper shape, worked all over with bright colored silk cross stitch designs, are worn with white coats and skirts.

Ford Car Overturns.

A Ford touring car containing George Sickler and Andrew Schilling of this city, overturned while rounding Simmons's corner on Barclay Heights early Tuesday morning and the car was damaged. The cause of the accident was not ascertained. Schilling was slightly injured.

126,000 Miles of Cloth for Cement Sacks

To keep cement moving from the mills to the many building jobs always under way, cement manufacturers require an astonishing quantity of sacks.

This year the industry has considerably more than 225,000,000 sacks. These represent enough cotton cloth to make a skirt for every woman and girl in the United States—126,000 miles of 30-inch fabric. Even a moderate sized mill which ships say 1,000,000 barrels a year must have 2,000,000 or so sacks.

When a customer returns a sack he gets credit for it, if it is usable or repairable. The convenient returnable sack means that each plant has to have large departments where men and women sew, sort, clean and count sacks continuously. This work alone costs the industry nearly $1,250,000 a year.

And cement manufacturers keep increasing their sack inventories so that they can ship promptly. Last year they purchased a total of more than 100,000,000 new cotton sacks. For replacements alone over 50,000,000 were needed; for increased supplies over 30,000,000. In addition over 18,000,000 paper bags were used representing 7,000,000 pounds of paper.

This problem of containers causes a large and steadily growing investment by the portland cement industry.

Sleepy Hollow Church.
Sleepy Hollow church, at Tarrytown, N. Y., made famous by Washington Irving, recently celebrated its two hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary. The edifice is just like it was when old Crone sang in the choir, says the Detroit News. Within its gray stone walls one can still hear the faint echoes of Crone's psalmody, for it was that the luckless hero of the end of Sleepy Hollow lifted his voice to the enjoyment of every fair in the community. The church underwent only slight alterations, and is still used for worship on Sunday mornings in summer. Thousands of pilgrims make pilgrimage there each year. The church is right in the heart of the country about which Irving wrote.

Author of Munchausen Tales.
The author of "Baron Munchausen's adventures," those fantastic tales of a man who wrote his master's name in a charter member of the Munchausen club, says the Detroit News, a native of Illinois, was a curator of the museum of the city of New York, and was accused of embezzling from a collection in charge. He fled to England to escape prosecution. He obtained employment at the Dolomieu mines in Cornwall, and while there engaged created Baron Munchausen. He died in Ireland in 1794 at the age of fifty-seven.

Children of the Desert.
A passion for snuff and the vanity they display in their personal appearance are the principal failings of the people of the Sahara. These with their habit of incessantly asking for presents, are the worst traits of their character, and may surely be forgiven them for the honor they pay to their women, for the love they display to their children and for the kindness they show to their animals, says the Geographical Journal. Their children are admirably brought up; they have wonderful manners, respect for their elders and unselfishness to one another to a degree which would make European parents envious.

Preventable.
Sickness costs the United States $300,000,000 a year in lost wages and the total loss from preventable diseases and deaths is nearly $3,000,000,000, according to the national health council. How much of this could be prevented by better laws to ensure pure water and milk, and abolish slums and overcrowding and overcrowding? How much by shutting out low-grade emigration?

MOVEMENT ON TO "FIRE" LANDIS

San Johnson Still Trying to Get Him Out—Judge Has Contract So His Enemies Work Under Cover.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Nov. 7.—Those hardy, old irreconcilables, Judge Landis and San Johnson, are reaching toward the hip with the idea of shooting it out for the control of baseball, according to well informed sources here. The war, if any, will be started by Johnson, they say, and finished by Landis who happens to sit in the driver's seat with a contract so uncompromising as to give him absolute power. He will need it.

It is said that judicious efforts are being made by the Johnson faction to discredit Landis and his administration at every turn. Indirect propaganda, dealing only with generalities and innuendoes, have been used for this purpose, it is alleged. The business in question has been taken by the Landis element to mean that a determined effort will soon be launched against the judge's control of the game.

It has even been intimated that Landis will be approached by "friends" who will point out to him the expediency of tendering his resignation. One baseball man recently went so far as to declare that some of the club owners would be satisfied to pay Landis his salary for the duration of his contract, if he would step down from the throne. Upon which, the judge's local spokesman became authority for the statement that Landis would serve the seven years of his contract whether baseball like it or not.

There is no doubt whatever that baseball is "fixing for a fight" again. Landis himself made some few political enemies when he awarded to charity the proceeds of the 1922 world's series game, called in the tenth inning, without consulting Johnson or John A. Heydler. He cemented this hostility by making arrangements for the last series with Johnson and Heydler again ignored. Heydler even wasn't aware that the meeting was being held until notified of its outcome by the newspapers.

The propagandists, of course, had been working on the judge for some time previous to this breach of etiquette. However, not all of the adverse comment is actual propaganda. Some of it comes from men who helped to elect Landis to his position after the New York-Chicago and Boston clubs of the American League had taken deep and lasting issue with Johnson on his control of baseball, with particular reference to his decision on the famous Mays case.

On that occasion, the National League, in toto, lined up with the anti-Johnson trio and voted Landis into one of the biggest and most highly paid offices in public life. Some are said to have lived to regret it. The judge, it is intimated, is entirely too arbitrary to suit some of them. But, at the time of his elevation, they signed an agreement to refrain from all public criticisms of baseball officials and colleagues.

Tied hand and foot by bonds of their own making, they have only one recourse, to wit:—

Plants Looking Like Stones.
Aure makes animals look like plants, plants like animals, and not, rare occasions, like unanimate objects. A striking example of the last are stones like plants found in northwest Africa. There are several species of this succulent vegetable resembling various kinds of stones or pebbles, and in general they resemble the fat cactus family, but without spines, says the Detroit News. Their town color is a cunning protection against the hungry wild animals that roam the country, for which they could not only furnish an attractive food but a sort of cooling drink. A further disguise and protection these "living stones" are usually found associated with real stones, smooth stones of dry crevices, which they closely imitate in color as well as shape.

For Richmond Hill Monument.
The Greenwich Village Historical society of New York will erect a memorial tablet to mark the site of the famous Richmond Hill mansion, erected in Greenwich village in 1760. During its long career the Richmond Hill mansion once served as Washington's headquarters. Its approximate site is that now bounded by Macdonald, Spring, Varick and Charlton streets, occupied now by the Butterick company.

Riding Eiffel Tower Steps.
Riding from the first platform of the Eiffel tower, in Paris, to the ground on a bicycle was the daring achievement of a young Frenchman. In the first leap the bicycle covered 40 steps. The remaining 316 steps were covered at the rate of from 15 to 20 in each jump. In less than one and one-half minutes he had covered the entire distance of 90 yards and was only slightly scratched on one leg as he rounded a post at the bottom.

Going Too Far.
"What are you growling about?" "Aw, the memoirs of a fellow who tries hard to link himself with the great and the near great. He even inserts an anecdote about Julius Caesar."

"No harm in that. Anybody is entitled to relate an anecdote about Julius Caesar."

"Yeah, but he tries to convey the impression that he knew Julius Caesar."

Restoring Laysan's Vegetation.
Scientists of the United States Agricultural department are introducing plants on Laysan Island of the Hawaiian group preserve in an effort to restore vegetative conditions completely destroyed by rabbits.

CHILDREN ENJOY THE MARIONETTES

Tony Sarg's Marionettes which played at the Kingston High School Auditorium Tuesday afternoon and evening proved very interesting. In the afternoon the auditorium was filled with school children who were eager to see the Marionettes. They were all well pleased with the Royal Juggler, Little Red Riding Hood, and the other numbers of the program.

In the evening a large audience was delighted by the Marionettes who played Don Quixote. The show lived up to all the promises that were made. Don Quixote battles with the sheep and the windmill furnished the humor. Sancho Panza added to the humor.

There were some very fine settings and the small tables and chairs which just fit the Marionettes were wonderful. The story of Don Quixote was very interestingly acted and all those present were well pleased by the presentation.

RAISE BAR AGAINST WOMEN

Laws in Many of the States Still Deny Them Equal Rights With Men.

A survey of laws has established the fact that every discrimination complained of by women in 1848, except the franchise, still exists in some part of the country today, and that many of them are practically universal, write Carol Reilish in The New Republic. Except in the eight community property states, the services of the wife in the home are the property of the husband; in all but twelve states, prostitution is the act of the woman only and not of the man; practically every where women are paid less than men for the same work in both public and private employment.

In Georgia and Maryland, a father may with the children entirely away from the custody of the mother, and in Alabama he has the right to will away the child from the mother after it has reached the age of fourteen. In a number of states the father has a greater right than the mother to the control and guardianship of children and to determine their education, their religious environment, etc.

In Vermont and Georgia a married woman's earnings belong legally to her husband, and not to herself and may be seized by her husband's creditors to meet his debts. In Florida a husband is entitled to manage and control the wife's property. In Kentucky and Texas the husband can obtain a divorce more easily than can the wife. Examples of similar discriminations against women might be multiplied.

WOMEN GROWING ROBUST

University Statistics Show Marked Physical Improvement in the Sex in America.

Let pessimists stew in their own bitter juice; the American woman is steadily growing taller, healthier, and more robust, more fit to take her own part and to mother a strong race.

Doctor Mosher of Stanford university, in a note reprinted from the California State Journal of Medicine, shows that the average height of Stanford women has risen from 62.4 inches in 1892 to 64 inches in 1921. That of Vassar women has risen from 63.2 inches in 1900 to 64 inches in 1921; that of Smith college women from 62.8 inches in 1892 to 64.2 in 1921.

Doctor Mosher gives some very interesting correlations between the increase in height and the increasing width of waist, the diminishing length and width of skirt, and physiological normality. The cause of the improvement of physical movement demanded by athletics and reluctantly licensed by fashions in women's clothes.

No man, it is written, may add a cubit to his stature by taking thought. The average woman has proved that she can add at least inches to her stature by taking exercise.—New Republic.

Mexican Agricultural Pests.

Explorations in Mexico for the purpose of securing information regarding the existing federal horticultural board quarantines restricting the entry of products from Mexico on account of pests which they might carry to this country were conducted during the spring by the United States Department of Agriculture. The explorations were conducted chiefly in relation to fruit and vegetable pests, particularly the fruit flies, the pink bollworm, and the cotton-boll weevil and the related Thurberia weevil. The object was to determine the present status in Mexico of these pests as a basis for possible amendment to American quarantines.

Public Demands Relief From Strike In Anthracite Field

OUTLAW strikes are still of frequent occurrence in the anthracite mines in spite of the 10 per cent wage increase which the mine workers received under the terms of Governor Pinchot's plan for settling the general strike of September 1.

Since that strike ended on September 19, more than 20 outlaw strikes occurred up to October 19, involving from 160 to 19,000 men, and lasting from one day to more than a week.

In all, more than 30,000 men have been involved in these disturbances with an estimated loss in production of 125,000 tons of coal.

As a rule, the causes of the outlaw strikes were trivial. At two collieries the men were called out because two miners refused to pay fines of $25 imposed by the union, and the employees of a third colliery struck in sympathy, involving a total of 1,800 men.

Nine hundred men at the Central colliery of the Pennsylvania Coal Company at Pittston struck because the boss freeman at the mine refused to join the union. At another mine of the same company, also at Pittston, 150 employees struck because a driver boy, who was employed in Detroit during the recent suspension of mining activities, was not given his place on his return. The foreman refused to displace the young man holding down the job.

In another case 700 men walked out in an attempt to force the discharge of a miner. About 250 men struck at another colliery because of a dispute over the amount of "topping" to be put on coal cars. Some of the outlaw strikes were caused by disputes over the operation of the new contract, the men having been called out by local grievance committees in violation of the agreement.

ONE CENT A WORD ADVS. BRING RESULTS

PIGS' PLAYING

"As there is no food about at the moment," said Grandfather Porky, "and as there is nothing very special to do, I suggest we play some games. We haven't played any for ever and ever so long, and it might be rather fun. Of course I don't want to play games often. I might lose my handsome fat shape and I think my shape is distinguished. I look like the grandfather pig of the pig pen."

"Well, of course it is as well you admire your shape, for no one else would, I fear," said Miss Ham.

"And," she added, "I don't know that all would think it such an honor to look like the grandfather of the pig pen."

"But it makes no difference to me what others think," said Grandfather Porky Pig.

"In that way," he added, "I am a sensible pig."

"Just what do you mean?" asked Miss Ham.

"Well, there are some folks," said Porky Pig, "who are always worrying about what others think of them, and that, to my mind, is so very foolish."

"What good does it do?" it only hurts one's feelings. I don't allow my feelings to be hurt in that way."

Porky Pig Agreed to Be It.

If I should stub my toe it would be too bad, but I won't let what people say upset me. Gracious, but I'd be a miserable pig if I let opinions of others annoy me. Just think of the way people do talk of pigs. But I don't let it bother me, and I'm sure they admire my independence. I just go my nice pig way without paying any attention."

"I'm glad," laughed Miss Ham, in her funny, squealing voice, "but you call it a nice pig way."

"It is a pleasure to think that it makes you glad," said Porky Pig, making a bow bow. Miss Ham twisted her little tail more tightly.

"But what games do you want to play, Porky?" she asked.

"Well," said Porky, "the children were around the other day and they seemed to have a very good time playing hide-and-go-seek. 'I thought maybe it would be nice for us to try the game, and now would be a good time, as there is no food around, as I remarked before. And I've really slept so much I don't think I could even yawn if I were given a prize for it.'"

"Well," said Miss Ham, "if that is the way you feel, I should say you're more in the mood for playing than you have been for many a day, and than you will be for many a day to come."

"Let us ask the other pigs, for I agree with your feelings."

"Let us ask them at once and then we'll get up an appetite for our next meal. It seems strange to think that we need to work up an appetite, as the expression goes. I've heard the children use the expression and I've always thought it very absurd."

"So have I," said Porky, "but really I understand it. Of course I would eat if food were given to me now, but I am not as hungry as I'd like to be."

"The way I feel!" So Miss Ham and Porky Pig asked the other pigs if they would like to play hide-and-go-seek, and the others said they would. So every one started in to go off hiding while Porky Pig agreed to be it first. He counted up to five hundred, and then grunted loudly: "Coming."

Well, he hunted in all the places he could think of, and he couldn't find the pigs. He went behind the shed and looked under the barn and looked behind trees and stumps and even dug up some mud.

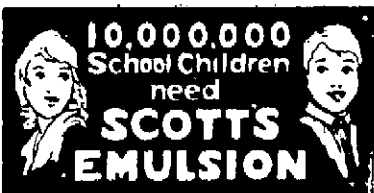

Still he didn't know what had become of them. They wouldn't really bury themselves in the mud. He didn't know what to do, when finally he looked back in the old pen—he had never thought of looking there, as that was open and without trees, and there they all were.

"Why, pigs," he shouted, "aren't you hiding?"

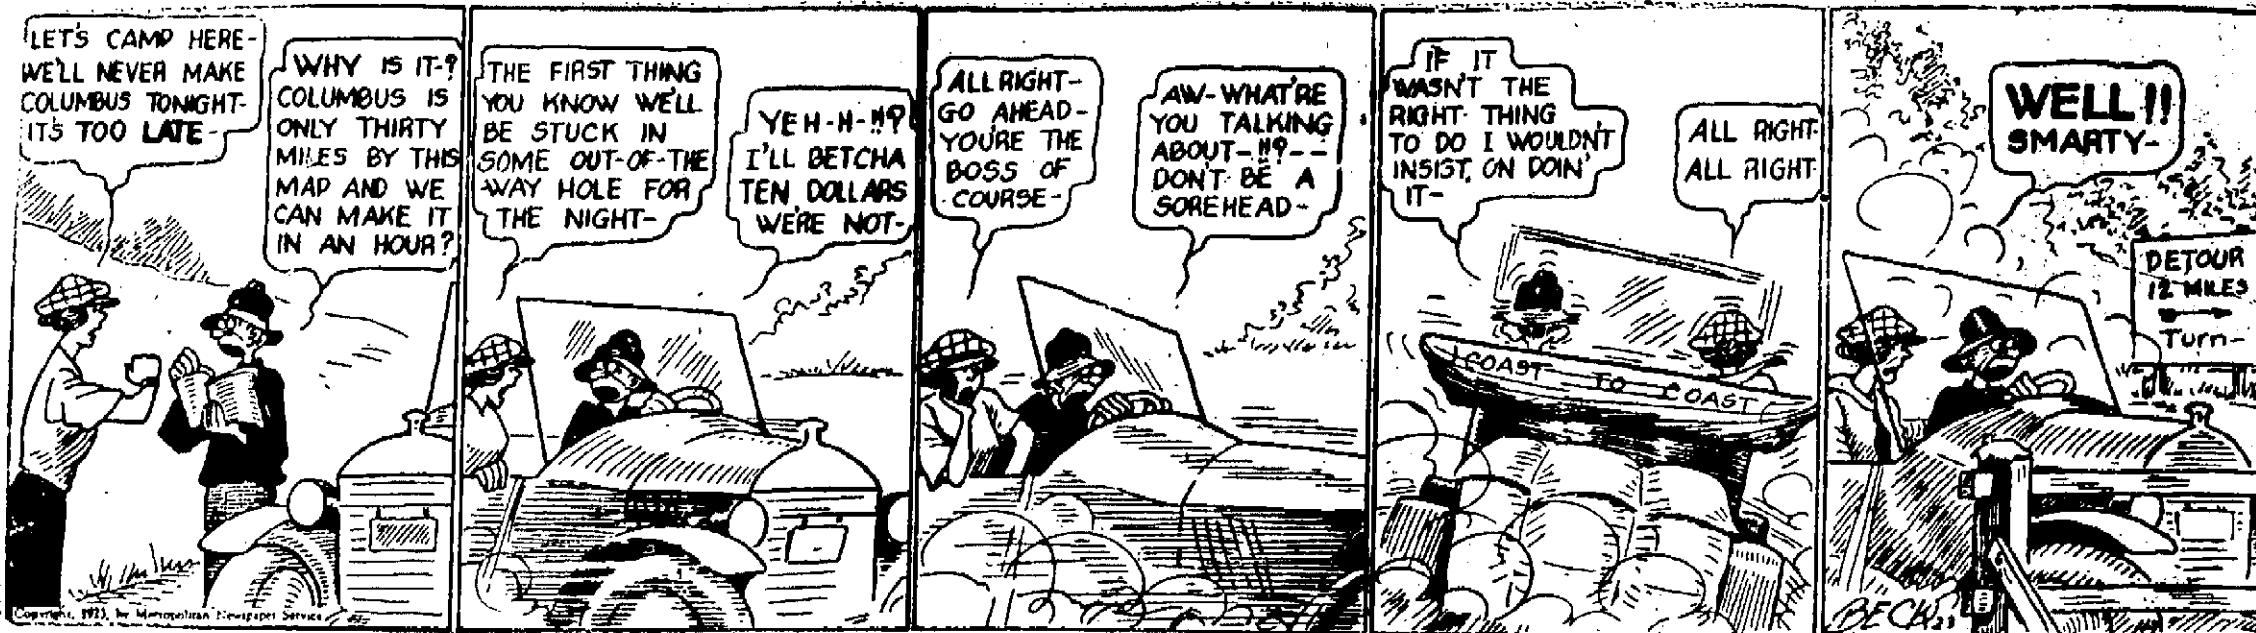

"No," they said, "we thought we would, but then when we thought of the word 'seek' we began to think how much more fun it would be to go seeking ourselves and to look for food. And so we didn't bother to hide."

"We played the seek part of hide-and-go-seek, and the seek part in pig games, we decided, meant to seek food."

And Porky Pig decided he would join them, for pig's playing was not a great success. Even he wouldn't want to keep it up any longer!

For those who like tripe the following recipe will prove a pleasant change:

Sauteed Tripe.—Cut honeycomb tripe into pieces for serving and parboil eight minutes, use equal parts of milk and water. Drain, sprinkle with salt and pepper, roll in flour, and saute in butter in a hot iron frying pan. Remove to a hot platter and garnish with lemon slices and parsley.

Smoked Fish Canapés.—Cut stale bread into one-fourth inch slices, remove the crusts and cut into oblongs four by three inches; then saute in olive oil until delicately browned. Arrange on each slice lengthwise alternate pieces of smoked salmon and herring, using two on each. Pipe around a border of creamed butter, seasoned with anchovy and lemon juice.

Washington Pie.—Cream one-fourth cup of butter with one cupful of sugar, add two well-beaten eggs and one-half cupful of milk. Mix two and one-half teaspoonsful of milk with one and two-thirds cupfuls of flour and add to the first mixture. Beat well and bake in layer tins. This will make two layers. Put together with raspberry jam and top with powdered sugar.

Marshmallow Pudding.—Dissolve one teaspoonful of gelatin in one cupful of boiling water, add one cupful of sugar and as soon as dissolved set the bowl into a pan of ice water. Add three egg whites beaten stiff and one and one-half teaspoonsful of vanilla. Beat until the mixture thickens. Turn into a shallow pan and let stand until chilled. Cut into pieces the size and shape of marshmallows, roll in macaroon crumbs and serve with cream.

Planked Club Steak.—Wash one-half cupful of butter and add one-half tablespoonful each of finely chopped red pepper, green pepper and parsley, one-fourth of a tablespoonful of finely minced onion and one-half tablespoonful of lemon juice. Spread one-third of the mixture on the center of the plank and arrange piped, mashed potatoes around the edge. Pan-broil a steak for four minutes and remove to the hot plank. THE FEATURE PICTURE

'SHADOWS'

The Greatest Story Ever Told in Motion Pictures, With LON CHANEY.

"Shadows" is an unusual story of an unusual character, thrown in the midst of an equally unusual situation in a picturesque New England village. With a cast of stars and featured players such as seldom has been gathered together for one picture, this production is as unusual as the title and plot.

No Advance in Prices

Many factors contribute to it—but one thing alone will wreck the charm of any woman. That is an unhealthy complexion. Yet it is so easy to have a youthful skin free from blackheads, pimples, redness, and discolorations.

Dermatologists of renown prescribe Pleso Tella Lactine. This famous preparation feeds the skin, stimulates the tiny cells and smooths the age marks. The fortunate owner of this revitalized skin possesses a complexion whose youthful bloom and freshness attract attention and admiration.

You will want to try Pleso Evening Whip. Its function is to give that transparent whiteness to neck, arms, and shoulders, so indispensable for evening occasions. And remember it will not rub off!

"The Two Original Essential Creams"—Pleso Vanishing (Greaseless) Cream and Pleso Glistening (Cold) Cream have long been known for their softening and preserving properties.

And the daily woman will appreciate Pleso Deodorant, for just a tiny bit removes every trace of body odor.

FURTHER ORDERS SENT JUSSERAND

Impression in Washington is That Negotiations Over Reparations Proposal Are More Favorable.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Paris, Nov. 7.—Premier Poincare has cabled additional instructions to Jules Jusserand, French ambassador to the United States, to enable him to enlighten Secretary of State Hughes regarding France's limitation for the proposed international conference of reparations experts, it was learned at the foreign office today.

The supplementary instructions
refer particularly to Secretary Hughes's interrogation as to how to interpret France's characterization of Germany's "actual" capacity for reparations payments, meaning her present ability.

The foreign office refused to disclose the text of the supplementary instructions to Ambassador Jusserand until he has another conference with Secretary Hughes.

The impression is growing in official circles that negotiations between Washington and Paris are more favorable.

The Petit Journal printed a report that Myron T. Herrick, American ambassador to France, has sent a telegram to Washington expressing his personal views "why America should do everything possible to hasten the proposed conference of international reparations experts."

This was denied by sources close to the United States embassy.

Foreign office officials admitted that Ambassador Jusserand had requested further instructions, believing that they would aid him "to reach a possible agreement with Washington regarding the scope of the proposed reparations committee."

The Radical Socialist newspaper
Quotidien printed a double column story on page one today under the headline:

"Is Poincare preparing to occupy Bavaria?"

The article added:
"Rumors which do not seem improbable were circulated in political circles yesterday relating to preparations for the eventual occupation of Bavaria by French troops. But we put this information with all possible reserve."

Foreign office officials denied that there was any truth in the assertion of the Socialist newspaper.

RESIGNATIONS IN CANAL BUREAU

Castor Hands In His Reports
Have It That 20 Men Will Be Affected by Greene's Shake-up.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, Nov. 7.—The resignation of Henry J. Castor of Albany as chief inspector in the state canal bureau has given rise to a persistent flow of reports at the capitol that sweeping changes in the field force of the canal bureau are to be made shortly by Col. Frederick Stuart Greene, state superintendent of public works.

Twenty officials will be affected,
according to the report.

Another report is that the resignation of Edward S. Walsh of Brooklyn, commissioner of canals, and his deputy, James E. Doyle, of Syracuse, will be handed to Colonel Greene within the next month.

Castor was one of the chief witnesses at the probe ordered by Governor Smith into alleged financial irregularities in the bureau of canals.
Col. Greene claimed the state had been overcharged $25,000 for canal supplies in the last few months. Castor admitted on the stand that he bought most of the supplies, but said he placed the orders at the direction of Deputy Commissioner Doyle. This, subsequently, was denied by Doyle.

It is said the duties of the men who will be dropped from the canal field staff will be taken over by engineers in the highway bureau. Col.
Greene is reported to have come to the conclusion that the highway engineers along the canal route could assume these duties in place of the present canal inspectors and division superintendents.

Whether the probe in the canal bureau will be continued has not been definitely determined. It was said today. Former Supreme Court Justice Joseph A. Kellogg of Glen Falls was appointed a commissioner
under the Moreland act by Governor
Smith to conduct the investigation.

Castor is the third canal bureau employee to leave as a result of the probe. The first was J. William Grady of Syracuse, who was dismissed October 1. The second was Harry M. Hulapple of Albany, chief financial clerk, whose position was abolished by Col. Greene after Hulapple has been brought up on charges of neglect of duty. The private bank accounts of all three were subpoenaed in connection with the probe.

CURRENT OFFERINGS
AT THE THEATERS.

"Captain Applejack," the story of a wealthy young man of a staid old family who turns pirate, will be presented tonight at the Opera House by the Champlin Stock Company.

Child," which was well presented,
with scenery and effects up to a high standard and late creations of the modiste's art worn by the women.

Tonight at Keeney's will be seen
"The Scarlet Lily," with one of the foremost American screen beauties,
Katherine Mac Donald in the lead.
It is a vital drama with a background of politics in which a plot of passion and intrigue is unfolded in an intense compelling manner.

"Pioneer Trails," a Vitaphone production, will be exhibited at Keeney's
Thursday, Friday and Saturday, being a historically correct reproduction of the gold rush period of '49.

Negri in "Bella Donna," with an all-star supporting cast, including Conway Tearle, Conrad Nagle and Lois Wilson. Also Baby Peggy in time Wives," the photodrama that has created such a favorable impression with Orpheum patrons. The first half of the week vaudeville will also conclude this evening. Tomorrow there will be an entire change of program, consisting of six vaudeville acts and Lon Chaney in his last and best picture, "Shadows."

WEEK TO CLEAR WEST
SHORE TRACK AT MILTON

Line Built Around Slide—Rocks Big as Box Cars.

The rock slide which covered the West Shore tracks near Milton Sunday at midnight is proving more troublesome than was at first expected. It is now estimated that it will be at least the end of this week before both tracks are cleared for normal traffic. For the present a temporary one-track railroad has been built around the slide and all trains, both north and south, use this single line, which causes some delay.
Steam shovels and derricks are at work removing the mass of earth and rock, but some of the big chunks of rock, which are of box-car size, have to be broken up with dynamite before they can be moved.

Make the cake with Snowdrift—grease

the icing with Snowdrift.

Snowdrift is a pure, rich vegetable fat.
It is much easier to cream because it is already so creamy itself. It is so delicate that it makes your cake rich without changing the flavor. It is all pure fat, without salt or water, so add a pinch of salt if you have been using butter in your recipe.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to serious complications.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

THANKSGIVING DAY PROCLAMATION

President Calvin Coolidge on Tuesday issued the following Thanksgiving Day proclamation:

"The American people from their earliest days have observed the wise custom of acknowledging each year the bounty with which Divine Providence has favored them. In the beginning this acknowledgment was a voluntary return of thanks by the community for the fruitfulness of the harvest. Though our mode of life has greatly changed, this custom has always survived. It has made Thanksgiving Day not only one of the oldest but one of the most characteristic observances of our country. On that day, in home and church, in family and in public gatherings, the whole nation has for generations paid the tribute due from grateful hearts for blessings bestowed.

"To center our thought in this way upon the favor which we have been shown has been altogether wise and desirable. It has given opportunity justly to balance the good and the evil which we have experienced. In that we have never failed to find reasons for being grateful to God for a generous providence of the good. Even in the least prosperous times, a broad contemplation of our whole position has never failed to disclose overwhelming reasons for thankfulness. Thus viewing our situation, we have found warrant for a more hopeful and confident attitude toward the future.

"In this current year, we now approach the time which has been accepted by custom as most fitting for the calm survey of our estate and the return of thanks. We shall the more keenly realize our good fortune if we will, in deep sincerity, give to it due thought, and more especially if we will compare it with that of any other community in the world.

"The year has brought to our people two tragic experiences which have deeply affected them. One was the death of our beloved President Harding, which has been mourned wherever there is a realization of the worth of high ideals, noble purpose and unselfish service carried even to the end of supreme sacrifice. His loss recalled the nation to a less capacious and more charitable attitude. It sobered the whole thought of the country. A little later came the unparalleled disaster to the friendly people of Japan. This called forth from the people of the United States a demonstration of deep and humane feeling. It was wrought into the substance of good works. It created new evidences of our international friendship, which is a guarantee of world peace. It replenished the charitable impulse of the country.

"By experiences, such as those, men and nations are tested and refined. We have been blessed with much of material prosperity. We shall be better able to appreciate it if we remember the privations others have suffered and we shall be the more worthy of it if we use it for their relief. We will do well then to render thanks for the good that has come to us, and show by our actions that we have become stronger, wiser, and truer by the chastenings which have been imposed upon us. We will thus prepare ourselves for the part we must take in a world which forever needs the full measure of service. We have been a most favored people. We ought to be a most grateful people. We ought to be a most generous people. We have been a most blessed people. We ought to be a most thankful people.

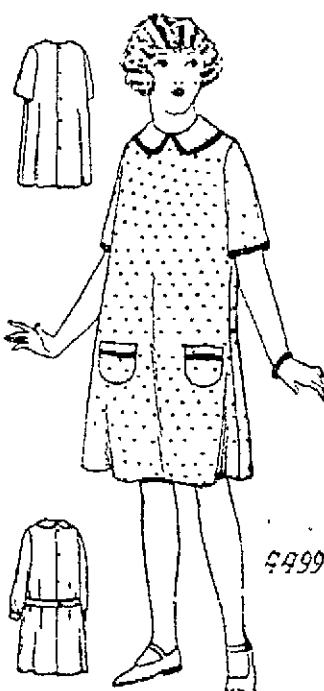

"Wherefore, I, Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States, do hereby fix and designate Thursday, the twenty-ninth of November, as Thanksgiving Day, and recommend its general observance throughout the land. It is urged that the people, gathering in their homes and their usual places of worship, give expression to their gratitude for the benefits and blessings that a gracious Providence has bestowed upon them, and seek the guidance of Almighty God, that they may deserve a continuance of His favor.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the Great Seal of the United States.

"Done at the city of Washington this fifth day of November, in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and forty-eighth.

(Signed) "CALVIN COOLIDGE."

LET US EXPLAIN THE PROTECTIVE POWER OF A FEW DOLLARS.

People who prefer to run risks rather than pay insurance premiums usually live to repent their false economy. Remember—the cost of insurance is never but a mere fraction of the wealth it protects and is always a fair measure of the risk that confronts you.

Do you realize that the time spent acquiring your property is GONE? Now what if our property is destroyed? Ask the experts of this agency about the actual protective power of a few dollars.

REFORMING A LOAFING DRIVER

Harry D. Norrell, who rose from an ice-wagon driver to the presidency of the biggest ice company in Ohio, chanced to notice that one of his drivers was neglecting his work loafing about a certain saloon, says Fred Kelly in The Nation's Business. Instead of sending for the man to come to the office, Norrell himself went to the saloon where the man was. He bought himself a drink and then nudged over alongside the driver, whom he engaged in conversation. "My name's Norrell," he said. "I happen to be the general manager of the company you work for, and I wish you wouldn't drink while on duty. You see, all the time that you have during working hours you have already sold to me, and I have resold it to our customers. If you steal a little of it to loaf in here, it is just as dishonest as if you gave short measure of any other commodity."

Such was his argument—said in a pleasant way that barred antagonism. When he got through the driver was on his side. Nobody ever received a letter from Norrell in which he designated himself the president of the company. I once asked him why he merely signed his name without a line below to indicate his position. "Oh, the people who don't know Norrell," he chuckled, "can have the fun of wondering whether the letters are from the president of the company or from a barn boss."

Elephant Radio. Even elephants use wireless nowadays. A loud speaking receiving horn was placed near a Jumbo in the London zoo to see how it would affect him. He listened to all the jazz mix-up with seeming unconcern. Then his Indian driver, speaking from the broadcasting station, uttered four orders: lie down, get up, salute, and pick up. The elephant walked slowly towards the loud speaker. No doubt the order to get up when he was still standing, puzzled his massive intellect. A keeper who watched him thinks he would have obeyed if the orders had been repeated.

Who Should Have. The actress had been happily married three times, but was compelled to sue her fourth for divorce. He had left the flat, also some old clothes and some of her old love letters. There she sat amid the litter and looked them over. "I remain, Mrs. John Flubdub," Thus they were signed. She tossed the last one aside. "But I didn't remain Mrs. John Flubdub," she sighed.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Wholesome Curiosity. "Does your boy Josh intend to study law?" "Yes," replied Farmer Cornetossel. "The traffic cops keep him in touch with the court so much of the time he thinks he might just as well read up so as to have an intelligent interest in what's goin' on."

Poor Sight. "Remember that lot you sold me; you said it was within sight of the car line?" "Yes." "Well, must I provide my own binoculars?"—New York Sun and Globe.

3 GENERATIONS IN SCOUTING

Father and Son of Local Scout Executive Both Active—Plans Go Forward for Campaign.

HERMAN H. NENSLAGE, H. H. NENSLAGE AND G. HENRY NENSLAGE.

What future Scouting with boys will have is very well shown by the history of the three generations of Scouts in the family of G. Henry Nenslage, local Scout executive.

Scout Executive Nenslage began as a Scoutmaster thirteen years ago in the little town of Madison, Indiana, and with the exception of one year has been connected with Scouting ever since, serving as camp director of the New York City Scouts for five years, entering the work there as a professional worker in July 1915. Since that time, in addition to being a camp director he has served as a field Scout executive and Scout executive in New York city and as Scout executive at Amarillo, Texas, and here in Kingston.

His father, H. H. Nenslage, has served as an assistant Scout executive with the Manhattan Council, in New York since October, 1916, and is considered one of the best men in the Scout movement in handling records and finance.

His son, Herman H. Nenslage, Jr., entered Scouting the day he was twelve years old and has progressed up through the ranks until today he holds the highest obtainable rating that a Scout can earn for himself viz. Eagle Scout.

The accompanying out indicates that life has agreed with them all and that they all believe in the Eighth Scout Law: "He smiles whenever he can. His obedience to orders is prompt and cheerful. He never shirks nor grumbles at hardships."

Material for the Scoutcraft yard at Hoffman street and Broadway is rapidly being mobilized, a large load of hemlock bark arrived this morning from Big Indian which will be used for the roof of a lean to. The roof will be put on in the same fashion as that used by the Mohawk Indians in the roofing of their "Big House" or "Gano-sote" as they called it. William Cruikshank donated this bark.

Ernest Ackler is the first captain to report his team in readiness to go ahead. He has the following team in addition to himself: G. W. Wright, Thomas P. Waye, C. R. Smith, Henry D. Elunge and John H. Hulenbeck.

At the meeting of term captains Monday evening practically all of the captains expected to have their teams complete by Wednesday morning. This phase of the work is going along very satisfactorily.

One of the unique features of the parade for Saturday afternoon at three o'clock is the provision to be made up of boys twelve years and older who are not new Scouts. It is hoped that every boy will be in line at the corner of Broadway and O'Reilly streets at the time for the parade.

The following endorsement has been received from the Rev. Dr. F. B. Seelye: "I want to assure you of my personal interest in the Boy Scout Campaign for funds to put Scouting on a firm financial foundation in Ulster county. No movement for the betterment and training of the boys of our county has been more effective than the Boy Scouts, and in many respects none has equalled it. It has a most direct and fascinating appeal to the boys and to the boys in the boy."

"In our youth more than in any material monument has the material for building the Ulster county we wish to be in tomorrow. I am sure our citizens could not engage in a worthier work than in giving their whole-hearted support to the cause of Scouting."

The Smile That Failed. A smile, I've heard somebody say, brings thirteen muscles into play; while if you want a frown to thrive you've got to work up sixty-five. Today with luck I chanced to meet. I found a quarter on the street. I picked it up and right away brought thirteen muscles into play. I blessed my luck, but later on, I grieve to say, the smile was gone, and sixty-five muscles worked like mad, for I found out the coin was bad.—Boston Transcript.

The Palmers. The name Palmer was given to those persons, during the Middle ages, who had made pilgrimages to the Holy Sepulchre at Jerusalem, and had brought home palm branches in token of having accomplished the journey. On his return home from the Holy Land the pilgrim repaired to the church to render thanks for his successful journey and gave the palm branch to the priest, who placed it on the altar.

Ceylon's Pearl Fisheries

Arab Pearl Diver With Nose Clip.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.) Ceylon has the oldest pearl fisheries in the world save perhaps those of the Persian gulf. And the Ceylon fisheries have been among the most prolific. Millions and millions of dollars' worth of those lustrous gems have come from the waters off the western and northwestern shores of the island since this fascinating sort of fishing began probably 1,000 years before Christ. Most of the pearls gathered in this long period have gone to the rajahs and princes of India; and even in the recent years in which there have been fisheries, these same insatiable collectors of pearls have absorbed from 90 to 99 per cent of the Ceylon "catch."

One unfortunate feature of the Ceylon pearl fisheries is their unprofitability. At intervals the pearl oysters mysteriously disappear and a number of years may pass without their reappearance. Then just as mysteriously hundreds of millions of the young bivalves will be found on the banks and lucrative fishing will again be possible.

There was such a disappearance fifteen years ago, and no important fishing has been possible since. But this year it has been found the sands and rocks of the banks are covered by countless young oysters, and it is believed that once more in 1924 the famous old Ceylon pearl banks will be adding their wealth to India's vast stores.

The pearl "oyster" of Ceylon, like those of other lands, is really not an oyster at all. It is more nearly related to the mussels than to the oysters, and it differs markedly from the latter in having a byssus, or a bundle of tough fibers, by which it attaches itself to the bottom. The maximum size attained by the Ceylon pearl oyster is only four inches, and the shells are so thin that they may be crushed between the fingers.

Most of Them in Gulf of Mannar. Pearl oysters are found on all parts of the coast of Ceylon, but exist in sufficient abundance to support an important industry only in the Gulf of Mannar which is a large indentation between Ceylon and India, lying immediately south of the line of giant stepping stones known as Adam's Bridge.

The pearl oysters are more or less concentrated on banks, which occupy a shallow, level plateau extending from the shore for a distance of three miles in the southern section to 20 miles in the northern and broadest part of the gulf. This plateau is bounded by the ten or twelve fathom curve, and falls away quite abruptly, so that within a very short distance of the fishing grounds we may get soundings of 100 fathoms, or even 1,000 fathoms. The area of the pearling grounds is about 800 square miles. The bottom is for the most part sand, diversified by outcroppings of calcareous rocks, which form flat or slightly inclined ledges, on which the pearl oysters grow. Aggregations of ledges constitute "paars," or banks, which centuries ago received names that are still applied.

The largest and most important of these grounds is Cheval pair, lying from nine to thirteen miles offshore at a depth of five to eight and one-half fathoms, and extending about six and one-half miles from north to south and four and one-half miles from east to west.

The number of oysters produced are absolutely beyond comprehension. Some years ago, on one pair five miles long and two miles wide, small pearl oysters were ascertained to be present to the number of 10,000 per square yard, in places forming a layer over the bottom nine inches deep. One diver, who was down only 30 seconds, brought up 3,225 young oysters by actual count. This condition of the grounds was determined in November by government inspectors; in December of the same year no oysters whatever were found—all had disappeared.

PITTS GETS LENS ORDER FROM MRS. SHAFER IN JAPAN

Harry F. Pitts, optometrist on Wall street, has received a letter from Mrs. Luman J. Shafer at Nagasaki, Japan, with an order to have some lenses ground for her. Mrs. Shafer before marriage was Amy Hendricks of this city daughter of D. B. Hendricks and was in the earthquake and fire which in September destroyed Yokohama and Tokyo. As the best optical works in Japan were destroyed Mrs. Shafer who had her eye tested by an excellent Russian oculist on August 29, fortunately had the prescriptions with her which Mrs. Shafer sent to Mr. Pitts to have lenses ground for her.

INVITATION TO WOMEN OF CITY

An unusually interesting program has been planned for the county wide meeting of the Ulster County Home Bureau at the St. John's parish house on Thursday, November 8.

Miss Fern Bradley, who is connected with Macy's department store, has been secured to talk to the women on what constitutes being really well dressed. She will discuss dresses, hats, suits, shoes and accessories. Miss Bradley is bringing sample garments with her and will demonstrate them at this meeting.

So much interest has been shown in this meeting by the women of the city that the executive committee of the Home Bureau has decided to extend an invitation to all women who are interested to attend this meeting, which will begin promptly at 10:30 a. m. Miss Bradley will be the first speaker.

After this there will be speakers on the work done by the Ulster County Home Bureau and the activities of the State Federation. The meeting will adjourn at 1 o'clock to join the Farm Bureau committee men at a dinner to be given at the Second Dutch Reformed Church at the cost of $1 per plate.

USE HAUGHTON SYSTEM AT COLUMBIA

Football fans the country over have been watching the progress of the Columbia Football team, which this year is working under the watchful eye of Percy D. Haughton, famous former mentor at Harvard. Above is shown an action-graph of Captain Walter Koppisch, one of the best football men in the country and a star all-around athlete. Koppisch is pictured above punting, one of his favorite roles as a backfield man.

Sporting Squibs

In every world series somebody stages a sleep-walking scene.

Three hundred and fifty sophomores at Yale are under athletic ban this year.

Football teams that use the ghost ball, however, expect more than phantom victories.

Even though the Giants lost, it is to be assumed that McGraw's brain is as bulging as ever.

Yellowstone has had 138,000 visitors this year, which is doing almost as well as a baseball park.

Of 25 states in which boxing is allowed under commission rule, 21 are allied with the National Boxing association.

Australia's Olympic team of 40 athletes will include rowing, swimming, boxing, tennis, target shooting and track and field exponents.

According to British physicians, golf players should retire at the age of fifty. In England twelve players past middle life died on the links this year.

Approximately $2,000,000 was spent by fight fans this year to see the record number of championship bouts staged in New York and New Jersey.

Joe Beckett, the English heavyweight fighter, plays tennis to keep in condition. There are folks who will tell you that Joe is a better tennis player than box-fighter.

Soldier Bartfield, the middleweight veteran of Brooklyn, announced his retirement from the ring when he was knocked out by Dave Rosenberg in the Ring Sporting club, Brooklyn.

The American league is to inscribe each year the name of one of its star players on a monument it is erecting in Washington. The name of the player is selected yearly by eight baseball writers, one from each city in the American league circuit.

Judge Critchfield, Wooster, O., is the owner of Pirella Hopeful, 2:14 1/2, that has won so many races on the half-mile tracks this season. He also has a half-brother to her, Peter Wooster, by Peter Scott, 2:05, that is now a four-year-old and shows a lot of class.

Yankees Get Boley

Joe Boley, the Baltimore shortstop, has made known his preference as to clubs and selects the New York Yankees so that it may be regarded as all settled that the deal between Jack Dunn and Colonel Ruppert is made. The price paid will be announced as "upwards of $100,000 in cash" when the deal is confirmed, which will not be far from the actual payment for Boley's services.

Calls Swimming Channel Huge Task for Fat Man

Swimming the English channel is a fat man's game, Carbis A. Walker of Cleveland, who swam across Lake Erie this summer, but failed to negotiate the channel, said in explanation of his failure.

"I was in the water three and one half hours," he said, "it was so cold it penetrated my muscles. After swimming three miles I became delirious and then unconscious."

"It's a fat man's job—and only a man with a lot of surplus flesh on his ribs to withstand the cold water can succeed. I failed because I had kept down weight for fast swimming."

Doolan Fools Rookie

"The funniest hidden-ball trick I ever saw pulled was by our shortstop, Mike Doolan, when I was with the Phillies," says Grover Alexander.

"A youngster being tried out by the team we were playing reached second base and failed to notice Mike had taken the ball and hidden it. The recruit led off the base several feet."

"Mike casually walked up to the lad, took off his cap and banged him on the head with the ball, saying, 'You must learn to watch where the ball is if you want to stay up here, my young man.'"

Charley Robertson Near Perfect Game in 1920

Charley Robertson, White Sox pitcher who won fame by hurling a perfect game against the Tigers at Detroit last season, allowing no hostile to reach first base, came within an ace of another of the same character when starting for Minneapolis back in 1920.

The Millers were playing at Louisville and Bobby reached the eighth inning without a Colonel reaching first. Jay Kirke, first sacker, and a veteran, popped a fly ball which any one of three Millers could easily have caught. Shortstop Jennings, Third Baseman Davis and Left Fielder Ronneau went after it. They all three hesitated, fearing a crash, and let the ball drop safe among them for a hit.

Betzel, the next batter, crashed into a double play. And Kirke was the only Louisville man who reached first those nine innings. It certainly was a tough break for Bobby.

"Iron Man" McGinnity to Quit Game for Business

"Iron Man" Joe McGinnity, fifty-two-year-old hurler, who piloted the Dubuque club to the Mississippi Valley league championship, has announced his retirement from baseball. He pitched more than 30 games during the season and was regarded as one of the league's leading twirlers. He has accepted a position with a manufacturing company at Decatur, Ill. McGinnity started his professional career with Van Buren, Ark., in 1892, and has been connected with the pastime ever since. He was in the big leagues ten years.

Sannibale swam a distance of 100 kilometers recently, and contends that such a feat constitutes a record. The distance is roughly 60 miles, and ran on the Tiber from Rome to the sea. The time was 15 hours.

Ride 'im Cowboy!

by the Veteran Motorist

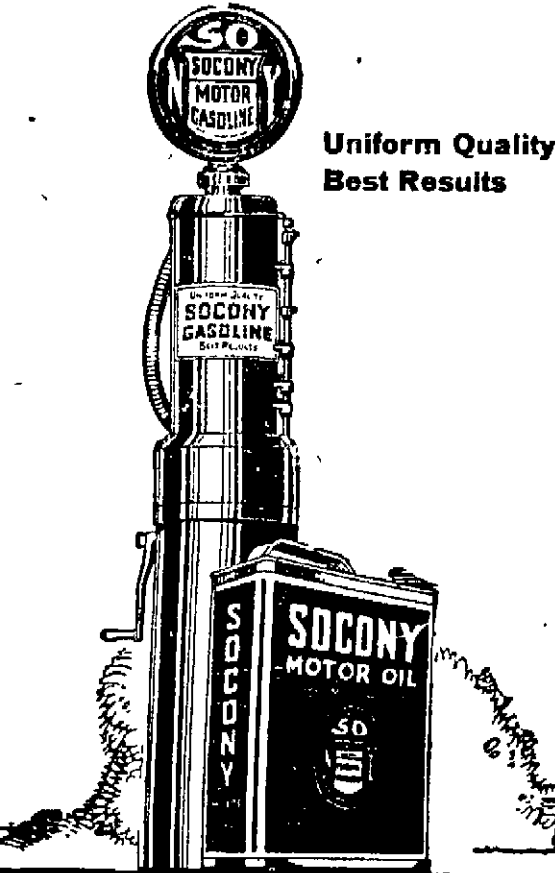

"LAST August a friend of mine persuaded me to go up to Tex Austin's Rodeo, in the Yankee Stadium, and for the first time in my effete Eastern existence, I saw honest-to-goodness cowboys and girls ride those bucking, sun-fishing bronchos—and I took my hat off to them in admiration.

"To watch the rider stick to that animated, whirling up-and-down animal was a wonderful example of human strength and intelligence pitted against brute force.

"I thought at the time how a great many motorists who use 'bootleg' gas are like an inexperienced rider trying to ride a bucking broncho. They are always 'thrown' in the long run (and sometimes the quality of the gas they use makes even a staid automobile jump and flutter like a wild horse!)

"Socony Gasoline is almost human in its power to deliver, even with a refractory engine, the utmost power. With it you can ride any kind of traffic—and when the time comes to make the long hill, and take the reverse curve at the top, it is there ahead of the pack. Take my advice: fill up on Socony Gasoline and Socony Motor Oil.

CLEVER GIRL SCOUT EXHIBIT

There is an exceedingly clever Girl Scout exhibit being shown in the show window of the Rose-Gorman-Rose store, and it is attracting much attention. It was arranged by Miss Rose, the representative from the state organization.

There are miniature evergreen trees and autumn leaves to be seen as a setting for the Girl Scout tent with its American flag on a flag staff in front of the same. There is also a camp fire and wood gathered for burning in front of the tent.

"Monday's Scout is at the tub, her sunday clothes to rinse and rub," and there one sees a uniformed girl scout at her tiny wash tub, with clothes already on the line.

"Tuesday's Scout will roast and fry fresh pancakes just for you." This girl scout is busy at her kitchen range, while nearby on the little kitchen cabinet are to be seen household supplies and equipment ready for baking.

"Wednesday's Scout is bent on mending the rift." As will be seen by the Scouts busy about the sewing table.

"Thursday is Scout Service Day for helping your neighbor in many a way," and here will be seen one Girl Scout at the bedside of an invalid, while another has just arrived with a basket of goodies.

"Friday's Scout is rosy and strong," she camps and hikes the whole "day long." And they are ready to leave the tent for the hike.

"Saturday's Scout is happy and gay for this is baby-caring day," and here is Miss Girl Scout and the baby in the go-cart.

"Sunday's Scout presents to you her uniformed back in the family way," which she literally does right before your eyes.

Coburn, Klan attorney, were dismissed today by Judge Hatcher in municipal court. The warrants had been issued at the behest of Dr. Fred B. Johnson, chief of staff of the Simmons faction of the Klan, who said he feared his life was in danger. Investigation showed Johnson had left the state.

HOPPERS TAKE TO LINGERIE

West Texas Insects Are Posing Up
Crops and Eating Flippers
Silk Undies.

Now it is nature that is conspiring against the flapper! News comes from Breckenridge, in west Texas, that the grasshoppers are posing up the crops in the field and banqueting off silk hose and lingerie on cloathelines.

This indeed must be disturbing to the peace of mind—or, at some misologists would have it, the piece of mind—of the flapper. It is a sign of modern times, and a not so healthful sign, that eaters generally are turning from the good old solid foods to the trifles, so the grasshopper may be excused for finding more delight in crepe de chine than cotton leaves. A pair of teddies or a cobwebby stocking even on a cloatheline is a delectable confect that can be expected to appeal to any creature, whether he hops or walks with his two hind legs.

But in this is also demonstrated that the flapper, being a pioneer, must bear the brunt of adverse forces that otherwise would fall upon less forward sisters. The West Texas grasshoppers, it is said, when silk is lacking on the cloatheline, attack cotton clothing. So the old-fashioned woman can thank her stars for the flappers. As long as there are plenty of them and they continue to wear stockings and underwear, the grasshoppers won't bother her.—St. Worth Star-Telegram.

FRANCE IS QUEEN OF THE AIR

She Is Building Great Aerial Force
For Safety Against Attack
by Germany.

The kingdom of the air is France's today, says a contributor to the New York Aerial Age. Her military air force is now quadruple England's. In commercial flying she leads the world.

"France leads the world in air transportation," it is said. "This commercial application of the airplane keeps alive her factories, among which orders are widely distributed in order to nourish as large an industry as possible. The technical progress essential for the improvement of commercial air transport is just as essential for the development of aeronautics as a means of national security—self-defense if you prefer. Her military air force is now four times larger than that of England. This, added to her commercial possibilities, gives her world command of the air."

"France has reason to be interested in air defense. Her late enemy, by whom she has been invaded every fifty years since before Christ, is but three hours away from her capital. The Versailles treaty hasn't disarmed Germany in the air. It is estimated that Germany today could equip an air force of 5,000 airplanes, during a period of diplomatic tension lasting eight or nine months. It is figured that at least seven months are needed by any nation to inaugurate an intensive manufacture of aircraft and their engines."

Couldn't Join the Herd.

Usually it is the father of the girl whom the trembling young man has to see when he wishes to propose, but sometimes it is the mother.

One such unfortunate called upon his prospective mother-in-law, and was met with absolute frigidity.

When his mission was announced the mother had a fit.

"No, sir," she exclaimed. "I have not encouraged your visits. On the contrary, I have opposed them. I feel you have taken a mean advantage of our hospitality—that you intend to start on our ewe lamb."

Then the young man became angry, for he had received every possible encouragement.

"Madam," he said to the astonished woman, who expected and hoped he would go down on his knees to beg for the honor of an alliance with the family, "if I cannot have the family lamb, you will excuse me from continuing this interview with the family matron."—London Tit-Bits.

More Compression.

The paper on the wall had become very faded and looked very much the worse for wear, but in spite of all Mr. Cityman said to the landlord he refused to do anything to it.

The house was small, but the owner assured his tenant that if he could not put up with the old paper he could soon find plenty of others who would be willing to do so.

At last one day Mr. Cityman said to his wife:

"It's no use, Margaret. We shall have to put on some new paper at our own expense."

"And take all the trouble to scrape the old stuff off?"

"Certainly not. We'll put it on over the other."

"John! And make the rooms smaller still!"

Unfortunate Circumstances.

A certain schoolboy who had regularly brought home excellent weekly reports at the beginning of last term just as regularly returned with unsatisfactory reports toward the end.

"How is it you are not doing so well?" asked his father, anxiously.

"It's teacher's fault," was the reply.

"He's moved the boy that sat next to me."

Modern Fashions.

"So the engagement is off?" "Yes, she was so indignant when she heard about what he'd done that she tore off her engagement ring and flung it into her right hand."—Sydney Bulletin.

Other Days.

Remember when "Cowboy Pool Sharks" and "Indian Medicine" vendors had to wear long hair and leather "chaps" to do any business at all? That was "way back in the days of the cheaper cuts, wasn't it?—Buffalo Evening Times.

The good wishes for a long and happy married life are extended by their numerous friends both in Saugerties and New Jersey.

Van Aken-Stork.

Abram B. Van Aken, a well known building mason of this city, and Miss Anna M. Stork of Andrew street, were united in marriage in Jersey City, N. J., on October 27, by the Rev. Charles L. Everett. After the ceremony they left on an auto honeymoon trip through the east and will spend several days in Springfield. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Van Aken will reside in this city. Both are popular young folks and have the well wishes of a host of friends.

Sorosis.

Sorosis met on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. D. Haines. The roll call was "Noted Women." The paper for the day, "The Autobiography of Margot Asquith," was very interestingly given by Mrs. Lorraine Wood. "Women in Politics," was the subject of Mrs. Rice's reading and dealt especially with English and American women in politics. Mrs. Simmons spoke in behalf of the Near East Relief. The club ac-

Marlequin Style.

Towards the close of the eighteenth century furniture makers designed pieces which might have a double or triple use. This was called Marlequin furniture. Beds of today that are transformed into mantels of piano, tables which become dressers, chairs that are stool-like are merely examples of Marlequin style.

Not only Great Britain and Germany but Italy, France and Holland as well, are building more tonnage than the United States today, says a statement just issued by Lloyd's Register of Shipping, giving returns for the quarter ended September 30. In the past four years, it is pointed out, this country has fallen from first to sixth place among the shipbuilding nations of the world.

World Construction Loss.
World construction at the close of the quarter just ended was smaller than at any time since the close of the war, Lloyd's Register states, and this represents a decline of more than 100,000 gross tons, in comparison with the preceding quarter, ended June 30 last. In the last three months the aggregate of American construction decreased 34,000 tons, that for Great Britain and Ireland 66,000 tons and for all other countries combined 65,000 tons.

The following table shows in gross tons the comparison of construction orders now, as compared with three months ago:

	Oct. 1 1923	June 30 1914
Great Britain and Ireland	1,271,195	1,722,000
Germany, with Danzig	343,855	547,000
Italy	145,423	59,000
France	142,689	227,000
Holland	104,431	116,000
United States	99,387	148,000
Japan	78,012	32,000
British dominions	38,145	37,000

World total 2,387,697 2,644,856

If only construction on which work is actually proceeding is taken into consideration, however, Lloyd's Register points out, the present aggregate is 229,000 tons less than three months ago. Contracts on which work has been suspended in Great Britain and Ireland now represent 242,000 tons, as against 84,000 tons for all other countries. The actual construction now under way, therefore, compares with that of the previous quarter as follows, the figures representing gross tons:

	Oct. 1 1923	July 1 1923
Great Britain and Ireland	1,028,155	1,207,759
Other countries	1,028,502	1,074,097

World total 2,056,657 2,281,856

It will be seen therefore, says Lloyd's Register, that while the actual work in British shipyards has decreased more than 175,000 tons since July 1, that in all other countries taken together has fallen off only 50,000 tons. As a result British plants, which three months ago were constructing 133,000 tons more than all the rest of the world combined, are now building only about 5,000 tons more.

Shows Increase in New Work.
Returns from all countries of the construction work being done under the supervision of Lloyd's Register and intended to be classed with that society show a total of 1,233,571 gross tons, of which 970,440 tons represent orders in Great Britain and Ireland. This more than half of all the new-going merchant tonnage building throughout the world is being classed by Lloyd's and more than three-fourths of the British total.

That new work begun is not keeping up with the volume of shipping being pushed toward completion is indicated by returns, which show that during the last quarter the world launchings represented 81,000 gross tons more than the total begun. There is also shown a decrease of more than 100,000 gross tons in the volume of new work, as compared with that in the previous quarter, as indicated in the following table, the figures shown representing gross tons:

	Oct. 1 1923	July 1 1923
Great Britain and Ireland	111,460	238,828
Other countries	106,772	75,737

World total 212,232 314,565

"Germany excluded; figures not available."
In comparison with the decline of 127,000 tons in work begun in British yards, it will be noted that other countries showed an increase of 25,000 tons, even with the new German construction excluded.

The comparisons of launchings for the two periods also show sharp decreases during the last three months. For British yards Lloyd's figures show a decline of 175,000 tons, as against 101,000 tons for the rest of the world.

Less Tanker Tonnage.
Tanker construction, which had been decreasing steadily for a long period, showed practically no falling off during the last quarter, the small decline in the British total tonnage being almost offset by the increase for foreign countries, while there was no change in the figure for the United States, as the following table shows:

	Oct. 1 1923	July 1 1923
Great Britain and Ireland	92,796	102,835
United States	19,400	19,800
Other countries	65,994	57,114

World total 178,190 179,749

There were several changes in the construction ranking of the various shipbuilding countries during the quarter just ended, says Lloyd's Register. British and German yards still lead, but France, which was third three months ago, has changed places with Italy, and is now fourth. Holland has taken the position of the United States, which was then fifth and is now sixth, while Japan and the British dominions continue to rank seventh and eighth, respectively. Holland, Italy and Japan are the only ones to show increases in the volume of work on hand, and these are slight. Almost without exception the various countries are building less tonnage now than before the war. Italy has more than doubled its prewar figure, and the British dominions show a very small increase, all the others registering declines, as the following table, for the quarter just ended and the last quarter before the war, shows, in gross tons:

	Oct. 1 1923	June 30 1914
Great Britain and Ireland	1,271,195	1,722,000
Germany, with Danzig	343,855	547,000
Italy	145,423	59,000
France	142,689	227,000
Holland	104,431	116,000
United States	99,387	148,000
Japan	78,012	32,000
British dominions	38,145	37,000

Britain and Germany. It will be noted, however, that the United States has fallen from fourth to sixth place, its old rank now being held by France.

The total world tonnage under construction just before the outbreak of the war, Lloyd's Register points out, was 3,162,891 gross tons, the present aggregate representing a decline of about 500,000 tons.

COMMANDS SMALLEST SHIP
EVER USED FOR EXPLORING

Capt. George F. Simmons, who commands the smallest vessel ever used for exploring, the Blossom, sailing from New London, Conn. The schooner is 100 feet long and carries a crew of 16 men, all college boys. The trip will carry them to the south Atlantic ocean where they will attempt to rediscover the island of Bouvet and obtain bird and animal specimens for the Cleveland Museum of Natural History.

British Birth Rate Lower
Paper Says Nation's Existence is Menaced by Baby Shortage.

England's declining birth rate is giving the authorities cause for concern. For the three months ended in June the birth rate per 1,000 of population in England and Wales was only 20.7. The registrar general says that "this is the lowest birth rate recorded in any second quarter of the year, except during the period of the war." In 1917 it was 24.9, in 1914 24.5, in 1920 20.6, in 1921 23.0 and in 1922 21.1. In the second quarter of 1923 it fell to 20.7, which is a drop of nearly 6 per cent in three years.

"If the birth rate continues to fall at this headlong rate," observes the Daily Express, "Britain's very existence as a nation is menaced." The paper asks what the chief causes of the slump in babies is and gives the answer itself by saying: First, unemployment, and, second, shortage of houses.

NO GERMAN SMALL COINS

Aluminum Pieces Issued Recently Have Disappeared.

Aluminum 200 and 500-mark pieces issued by the German government some months ago for small change purposes have entirely disappeared and it is even impossible to obtain them at the banks.

With the depreciation of the currency, the metal in the pieces soon became worth more than their face value in marks.

Poker players, too, are held partly responsible for disappearance of the pieces, as the aluminum coins were just a handy size to be used for chips.

Herr Dr. Leo Deckers

Herr Dr. Leo Deckers has proclaimed himself president of the Rhineland Republic, which he attempted to set up in Aix-la-Chapelle in an effort to establish a state independent of the German Reich. He is said to have French support. It is not believed the movement will succeed.

FIRST DIVISION
CONTENDERS CLASH

At Local Armory This Evening When Trenton Meets Kingston—Borgman—Again Leads Individual Scores.

Benny Borgman of the Paterson Metropolitan League team resumed his place as pacemaker among the point scorers, dethroning Banks of Brooklyn, who held the rank for one week. In the list of the ten leading scorers to date are three Kingston players, Riconda, C. Husta and C. Powers.

Brooklyn has a slender hold on the first position over Trenton, having played in one more contest. Kingston is close behind. These teams have been showing wonderful form so far this season, excelling anything in professional league history.

Tonight at the local armory court two of these first division contenders will clash when the Kingston team faces the Trenton Five. Last Friday the local representatives were taken into camp by Trenton in one of the tightest games so far, the result being in doubt until the very last second. If the Morgenweek clan can extend the Trenton team on the latter's court it should come close this evening to pulling a winner. The contest is scheduled for 8:30 o'clock with the usual dancing following:

Strange Young Man

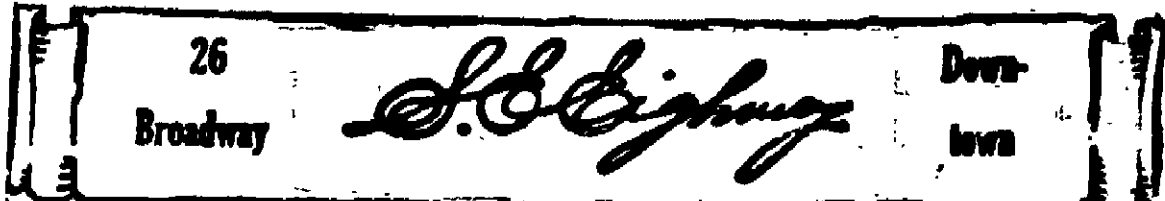

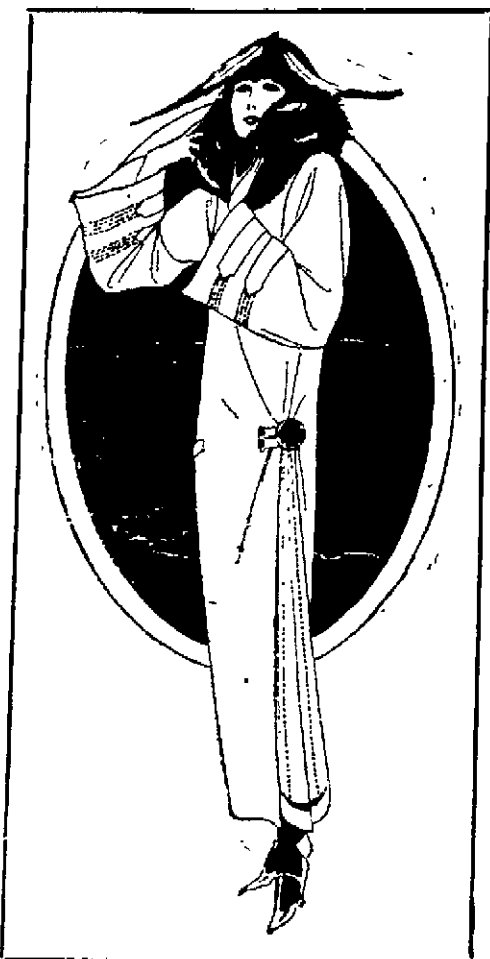

Visits at Saugerties.

Tuesday morning Officer John LaVelle was called to the Martin Canine Co. factory, Saugerties, to take charge of a young man who appeared to be mentally deficient. The young man gave his name as Sandford Landis and his home address 13 Caroline street, Lancaster, Pa. He applied for a position at the factory and told so many conflicting stories that police headquarters were notified. When brought Police Justice Abel, Landis said he was 19 years old and that he had been away from home over a week. Judge Abel got in communication with the young man's father, who requested the judge to detain his son until his arrival today as he felt it unsafe to have him return alone. He is believed to have wandered away from home.
